

Opening and Framing

 Indoor Air Quality (IAQ)

Symposium Overview

- Discover a Successful Framework and System for Effective IAQ Management
- Employ Management and Application Approaches
- Witness Faculty Programs Living Out these Strategies
- Identify Solutions to Tough Technical Issues
- Experience Dynamic New Ways to Network with Peers
 - Interactive Breakout sessions
 - Open Space Sessions
 - In-depth technical sessions
- Recognize and Celebrate Leadership and Results
- Develop Your Own Leadership Story for Action

Success: Everyone Leaves Part of the National IAQ Tools for Schools Network

 Indoor Air Quality (IAQ)

Tom Kelly

Director, Indoor Environments Division
Office of Radiation and Indoor Air
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

 Indoor Air Quality (IAQ)

Question: For you, how powerful were the Scenario Breakout sessions with the faculty and the Open Space with the faculty?

1. Not powerful
2. Somewhat
3. Useful
4. Very useful
5. Breakthrough

36

Question: For you, how powerful were the technical sessions and the Open Space with the presenters?

1. Not powerful
2. Somewhat
3. Useful
4. Very useful
5. Breakthrough

37

Question: How ready are you to be active in the national network?

1. Not yet
2. Somewhat
3. Will join and recruit others to organize local efforts
4. Will actively participate to engage tools and people
5. Will play leadership role as a champion and resource

38

Question: During the 9th IAQ TFS Symposium, have you seen the kind of assistance you need back home?

1. Not yet
2. Somewhat
3. Sessions provided information needed
4. Have connected with people who will help
5. Will use the network in our programs

39

Question: Which condition best describes the current status of your school system's IAQ management program?

1. Well developed and successful
2. Needs to take a big leap forward

40

Question: Which offer are you ready to make to the national network?

1. Be a model for other school districts
2. Be a speaker at EPA webinars
3. Be a faculty at the next EPA symposium
4. Host a pacing event in my area
5. Other offer

41

1. Provide mentorship on using the Framework
2. Hold a webinar on a given topic
3. Further explore the technical solutions
4. Generate a pacing event in my area
5. Other request

42

IAQ Tools for Schools Framework

Webinar

Save the Date
 January 22nd, 2009
 2:00pm (EST)